Guidelines for Preparing Honors Projects for Submission to the Digital Commons

Beginning in 2006 all Honors Projects that are submitted electronically will be posted to our institutional repository, DigitalCommons@Macalester.edu. With the exception of selected scientific projects with ongoing research, these Honors Projects will be accessible on a permanent basis to anyone and fully searchable via Google and Google Scholar. The Digital Commons, an open access initiative (OAI), is just one example of changes that are affecting how scholarship is published and accessed. The Digital Commons increases the visibility of our scholarship, but with this increased access comes increased responsibilities.

Copyright protects both you as the author, as well as other authors cited by you. These guidelines will help you avoid copyright infringement and/or the unintentional act of plagiarism. Keep in mind that simple keyword searches in Google can reveal when someone has used another's work without giving credit to the original author. Detailed information on copyright can be found in a variety of locations including our website at <http://www.macalester.edu/infoservices/copyright>. These guidelines also remind you to pay particular attention to proper citation procedures. For assistance in writing citations, please see our web page <http://www.macalester.edu/library/research/general/citing.html>. It is in your best interests to become familiar with practices of proper citation in order to avoid charges of plagiarism or copyright infringement. In general, please follow these simple guidelines:

- Quotations – when quoting from books, articles, web sites, or other publications be give a complete citation that will allow the reader to locate your original source.
- Tables, data, sources of statistics, diagrams – if including reproductions of these types of sources, give a complete citation that will allow the reader to locate your source.
- Human Subjects – if your research includes human subjects please consult the web site for the Institutional Review Board for guidelines and procedures; see <http://www.macalester.edu/committees/irb/>.
- Your project may be a translation of material written in a foreign language. You must have the copyright holder's permission to upload the document in DigitalCommons.
- Web sites – almost every web site includes copyright information. Please review the site carefully; just because something is freely available via the web does not mean it can be used without permission.
- Media (audio, sound recordings, software, video, etc.) – if sound bites are not original (made by you), you will need to obtain permission from the copyright owner, which could include the performer, the composer, and the publisher.
- Images (photos, artwork, sculptures, graphics, paintings, etc.) - Images may be included in your printed Honors project, but for the online version in DigitalCommons@Macalester, you must comply with one of the following or images will be removed from your document:
 - if images are not original (made by you), you must include permission from the copyright owner, or
 - you can include a URL, but not the image itself, or
 - if images are from ArtStor, you must delete image and only include URL (this allows readers on campus to access the image)

All citations must appear in your footnotes, as well as in your bibliography.

If you need assistance in obtaining copyright permissions, please see <http://www.utsystem.edu/OGC/IntellectualProperty/permisn.htm>
