ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

This volume is due to the enthusiasm and dedication of the Macalester faculty who gave their time and thoughts to the first Macalester College International Faculty Development Seminar. We are very fortunate to have such congenial, provocative colleagues. The sense of academic community we developed during the seminar is a tribute to the quality of the faculty and the potential of the College.

We are very appreciative of the speakers who listened patiently to our questions and fielded our frustrations. Their insights in both their papers and their lectures added to our appreciation of the difficulties of transition.

We owe a great debt to President Robert M. Gavin, Jr., who, from the beginning, strongly supported the idea. Dr. Gavin witnessed the concluding sessions of the seminar.

The People of Hungary were gracious and generous in their encounters with us. We are particularly grateful for the assistance of Mrs. Rosy Fischer and Ms. Elizabeth Simon who helped us with local arrangements.
