*RESEARCH COLLECTIONS IN TRIBHUVAN LIBRARY

The Nepal Collection:

The Nepal Collection of the Tribhuvan University Central Library was established with only a few books on Nepal in 1962-3, the year the Tribhuvan Library began. This collection has grown over the years through the efforts and care of many people and financial support from the University itself, research centres and private individuals. Now the centre of study and research on Nepal, it is the largest collection in the country with 3433 titles comprising 10,571 volumes.

The major topics of this Collection are history, geography, culture, economics and politics. The Collection is organized according to the Dewey Decimal classification system. Two copies of all the publications are kept under lock and key; they may be used by Nepalese and foreign scholars in the library only.

The Singh Collection:

General Singh Shumshere J.B. Rana, son of P.M. Chandra Shumshere J.B. Rana, was Ambassador to Great Britain and India. In 1976, he donated his personal collection of 5000 volumes to the library, where it continues to be housed as a distinct collection. About one-third of the Collection deals with the history, religion, and culture of Nepal, India, Tibet and Sikkim.

Special request from the Library to foreign scholars and friends:

The library at Tribhuvan University welcomes contributions of all relevant writings to enrich its Nepal Collection. Please remember to send them copies of your theses, articles, seminar publications and books. Inquiries or gifts may be forwarded to: Mr. M.S. Karki, Act. Dept. Librarian, Tribhuvan University, Central Library, Kirtipur, Kathmandu, Nepal.

*TIBETAN RUG ASSOCIATION NEWSLETTER DISCONTINUED

With the upcoming exhibition of Tibetan rugs at the Textile Museum in Washington, D.C., the Tibetan Rug Association Newsletter will cease as a separate publication. Instead, the editors will give their assistance, as well as the mailing list, to the Textile Museum so that you can be informed about the opening of the exhibition. They want to continue updating the Tibetan Rug Association mailing list and would like to continue to build a membership list of individuals who share their interests and concerns. They have reduced the Tibetan Rug Association membership fee to $2.00 per year which will keep members on the computerized list. Back issues of the Newsletter will be available as long as supplies last.

Contact: Jane Schnell (3842 Windom Place NW, Washington DC 20016) or Diana Myers (3717 Warren Street NW, Washington DC 20016).

*ICIMOD NEWSLETTER BEGINS

A Newsletter will be published four times a year by the International Centre for Integrated Mountain Development. News items, articles, comments and suggestions are welcomed. Write the Editor, ICIMOD, c/o SATA 4/80 Jawalakhel, GPO Box 3226, Kathmandu, Nepal.

Boulnois, Lucette

1983 Poudre d'or et monnaies d'argent au Tibet, principalement au XVIIIeme siecle. (Gold dust and silver coins in Tibet, chiefly in the eighteenth century). Paris, Meudon, Ed. du C.N.R.S. (In French).

This contribution to the history of precious metals in Asia relies on documents in Western languages, in Russian and in Chinese. It includes two parts: the first one, on Tibetan gold; the second one, on the silver coinage minted by Nepal for Tibet before 1792. In both parts the 18th century period is given special attention.

In the first part are reported testimonies and legends dealing with the gold mines of Tibet (including the famous text by Herodote on gold-digging "ants" and the discussions it has raised) and actual facts, from old times till nowadays. Out of various sources, the identification of old and recent gold mines and gold fields, the extraction and circulation of gold, prices, gold/silver exchange rates, comparisons with world prices, and political consequences, are studied — as well as the ways gold was made use of, beliefs as to precious metals and mines, treasures accumulated in monasteries and their fate. Photographs of 18th century maps help to interpret reports.

The second part deals with the monopolistic treaties by which the Nepal kings, until 1792, acted as ministers for Tibetans, minting for them silver coins out of bullion provided by Tibet; with the evolution of this agreement during the whole 18th century, its commercial and political context, its numismatic aspects, the consequences of minting debased coins, the Gorkha conquest, the war with Tibet and China, the abrogation of the monopolistic treaty, Chinese attitude as to Tibetan coinage after 1793, and the source of the silver bullion used to mint Tibetan coins.

1983 A Social and Psychiatric Study of Mental Illness in Nepal. Kathmandu: UNICEF.

This study consists of a clinical psychiatric survey of all those over 9 years old in a Brahman-Chhetri community of 1,202 people in the Kathmandu Valley. It was carried out along with a socio-economic and demographic survey of the society in order to identify which groups or segments of society are affected by mental disorders, and to help understand the ways in which people respond to these problems.

The research followed a multi-stage procedure. Following the socio-demographic household survey, a preliminary psychiatric screening was carried based on a structured interview schedule that was developed in India which is known as the Indian Psychiatric Survey Schedule (IPSS). This was tested and translated for use in Nepal and is particularly sensitive to the South Asian cultural context in terms of symptom expression (i.e. common somatic complaints, possession, etc.).

The final diagnostic evaluations were based on the classifications and diagnostic criteria of the Third Edition of the Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of the American Psychiatric Association (DSMIII). The multiaxial framework of this system of evaluation defines disorders in terms of a number of features (e.g. symptoms, stress, social adaptation, etc.), which are essential in studying a non-referred, non-western population.

Our findings demonstrated the presence of a range of psychiatric disorders. Out of the 830 people interviewed, 113 cases were identified which gives a prevalence rate of 13.6% of the population. Also, local concepts and responses to a number of major psychiatric disorders were examined in order to better understand the impact of these disorders on the family and community and to see what resources are available for dealing with such problems and what possible types of intervention may be appropriate.

1983 Sarvadurgatiparisodhana Tantra: Elimination of All Evil Destinies (Sanskrit and Tibetan Texts with Introduction, English Translation and Notes). Delhi: Motilal Banarsidass, xxix+385 p., Biblio.(ISBN:0-89581-572-9)

Sarvadurgatiparisodhana Tantra (Elimination of all Evil Destinies) is a Buddhist literary work belonging to the Yoga-Tantra class. This publication consists of an edition of the Sanskrit manuscripts and the Tibetan translations as available in the Tibetan Buddhist Canon. There are two distinct versions of this work both available in Tibetan translations separated from one another by about five hundred years. The edited Sanskrit manuscripts correspond to the later of the two. A complete English translation is given of this later version together with a substantial commentary drawn from the commentaries which are available in Tibetan translations of the Sanskrit originals.

This Tantra, in both its versions, is divided into three parts or chapters. The subject matter is presented in the form of discourses either by Sakyumuni or Vajrapani. The instructions given relate to the evocations (sadhana) and arrangement of various mandalas and the rites of initiations and consecrations which are given in them, as well as the descriptions of the ritual known as homa in Sanskrit and sbyin-sreg in Tibetan and funerary rituals of different kinds.

CONTENTS: Dedication; Preface; Bibliography; Introduction; Part I: Translation of the Tantra: Introductory Scene Mantras; Merits Arising From the practice of this teaching the Sandhana (Evocation); Rites for the Dead; Closing Scene; Mandala of Sakyamuni; Mandala of Vajrapani; Mandala of the Four Great Kings; Mandala of the Guardians of the Ten Directions; Mandala of the Eight Great Planets; Mandala of the Eight Great Nagas; Mandala of the Nine Bhairavas; Mandala of the Great Gods; Mandala of the King of Long Life; The Four Rites; Praises of those who promote this Kalparaja (Royal Work); Mandala of Cakravartin; Initiation and Instructions Given to Pupils; Drawing of the Than-ka; Different Rites for the Dead; A set of Divinities Belonging to the Durgatiparisodhana-Mandala; Rites in the Mandala; The Initiation of Pupils and Taking vows; Final praises; Vocabulary of Special Terms; Part II: Sanskrit and Tibetan Texts of Version B; Introduction; Part III: Tibetan Text of Version A.
