On Thursday, October 5, 2006, the college celebrated the upcoming construction of the new Macalester Athletic and Recreation Center with a ceremonial groundbreaking just west of the Leonard Natatorium, where the new gym will be located. The well-attended event launched the over-$40 million project, which has an expected completion date of fall 2008.

Greetings M Clubbers,

Fall 2006 will stand out in the history of the college as a momentous time for athletics at Macalester College. The ceremonial groundbreaking in October was the first formal step toward providing a state-of-the-art facility for athletics and recreation for students, staff, alums and the Macalester community. This marks Macalester’s institutional belief that mind, spirit and body must work as one to carry forward the core values of multiculturalism, internationalism and service to society.

With this in mind, I strongly encourage you to participate in meeting the financial challenge before us. We need your support, not only to provide the resources for completion, but also to reaffirm our belief in the significance of a positive athletic experience at Macalester and to extend that to the benefits of recreation and wellness activities for all Macalester students.

I recently spoke at the Hall of Fame banquet and wanted to convey some of those comments to a wider audience. In addition, I’ve been reading a couple of books that made me think beyond the day-to-day operations of Macalester athletics to the nature of intercollegiate activities themselves. What I mean is a deeper thinking about intercollegiate athletics and why—if you include my playing days as an undersized, no-hit, good field catcher—I am entering my 19th year in this arena where, fundamentally, I get to play, watch and organize games for a living.

These two books, John Wooden’s Wooden on Leadership (2005) and editor Andrew Blauner’s book Coach (2005), speak to the impact fine coaches have upon the students that participate in athletics. Coaches can be mentors, friends, confidants, and more … but at core the best coaches are educators and, in the continued on page 3

Recap: Fall Sports

As this issue of Megaphone went to press, the football, women's soccer and cross country teams were still completing their seasons. Be sure to check http://www.macalester.edu/athletics/ for the latest results.

Women's Soccer
Macalester enjoyed another outstanding campaign and finished the regular season at 12–2–5 overall and in second place in the MIAC with a 7–1–3 slate, extending its unbeaten streak to 43 games before a late-season loss to Carleton. After being ranked in the national polls most of the year, the Scots were selected as an at-large team to the NCAA Division III championships, making it to the national playoffs for the fourth year in a row and 13th time under Head Coach John Leaney. Forwards Annie Borton (Sr., Berkeley, Calif.) and Grace King (So., Northampton, Mass.) were co-scoring leaders in the MIAC. The Scots allowed just eight goals on the season.

Football
New Head Coach Glenn Caruso and the Macalester Scots stand at 2–6 on the year going into the season finale and are setting the stage for a brighter future in years to come. Macalester posted wins over Principia and Crown and reached 500 yards in total offense for the first two times in the program's history. Two-way threat Jacob McDonnell (Fy., Duluth, Minn./Marshall) ran for 207 yards in the win over Crown and against Colorado College had 149 yards receiving and 104 rushing. Quarterback Nick Slobe (Fy., Rock Valley, Ia.) has thrown for 1,307 yards and nine touchdowns through eight games.

Women's Golf
The Scots showed wonderful progress throughout the fall and then closed out the season with the program's most successful MIAC championship tourney ever, where Macalester placed third. Mac's lineup featured a pair of the top young players in the league in Jordan Matheson (So., Vancouver, B.C./Nichols School–N.Y.) and Karla Leon (Fy., Quito, Ecuador/Colegio Menor). Matheson earned Macalester's best tourney finish in 10 years when she placed second, while Leon placed fifth to give Mac two All-MIAC golfers for the first time ever.

Men's Golf
Strong first and third rounds helped the Scots move up one notch from a year ago and place sixth at the MIAC Championships at Bunker Hills. Macalester's sixth-place finish is one position higher than the team posted in each of the past two seasons and is the best at Mac in over 20 years. Chris Olson (Jr., Tokyo, Japan/American School) closed things out with a 76 on the final round to move into the top 20. Teammate Ryan Peters (Fy., Kohler, Wis.) was one of the league's top newcomers.

Men's Cross Country
Macalester won its season finale over Hamline to avoid its first losing season in 20 years. The Scots finished at 8–8–1 overall and 5–5 in the MIAC. Carson Gorecki (So., Mahtomedi, Minn.) was one of the league's best players and finished with nine goals and four assists, while coming within one goal of taking the conference scoring crown. Magnus Oppenheimer (Sr., Stockholm, Sweden/Viktor Rydberg) closed out a great career by scoring the game-winning goal in the season-ending win over Hamline.

Women's Cross Country
After graduating a talented and deep senior class, the '06 Macalester Scots had another solid season. The team placed second of 19 at the St. Olaf Invitational, and at the top of the lineup was as strong as any team in the conference. Callie PaStarr (So., Minneapolis, Minn./Southwest) placed fourth at the MIAC championships, and Erin Lowrey (Fy., Whitefish Bay, Wis.) finished sixth to give the Scots a pair of All-MIAC harriers for the third year in a row. Lowrey was the MIAC's top frosh. Anna Shaney (Sr., Leverett, Mass./Amherst Regional) also had a very good season and was the team's top runner at the Loyola Invitational in Chicago.

Men's Volleyball
The Scots needed to win their season finale to get into the post-season MIAC playoffs, but lost a heartbreaker to Bethel in a close match to miss out on the conference tournament. Macalester finished with a winning record of 12–11.

We must rally together over the next two years to accomplish this goal, and I once again strongly request your participation.

The M Club also marked a turning point in the history of that organization. At our last meeting, we added four new regional directors. As regional ambassadors, the directors will promote alumni engagement in Macalester athletics. The events may range from attending a Macalester “on the road” intercollegiate competition and a gathering before or after, to a wellness activity that would bring M Clubbers, college alumni and friends of the college together in the name of fun and recreation. These directors—Don Olson in the Seattle region; Michael Skoien in the Philadelphia region; Ed West in the Baltimore/D.C. region; and Clark Wohlferd in the New York City region—will need a nucleus of M Club members to help organize these gatherings. If you are interested in assisting, please email me: steve.cox@spss.org and I will forward your contact information to them. This is very exciting for us as an organization, and we look forward to making this a success.

I would also like to announce the creation of the lifelong “M Club Membership Card” that will allow you free admission to all Macalester home events and at “We’ll Be There” events ... free popcorn and a beverage! The card may be used for other regional events as well, so don’t leave home without it!

Lastly, if you ever have the chance to attend our Hall of Fame ceremony and banquet, where we recognize outstanding athletes, I strongly recommend it. This year we inducted Coach Jack Bachman, Paul Bachman ’81, Roger Bridge ’92, John Howard ’88 and Tom Ottesen ’65 into the M Club Hall of Fame, and recognized Athletes of the Year Tim Burns ’06 and Heather Lendway ’06. Congratulations to these outstanding M Clubbers and thank you for all you have done! The same goes for future inductees, the leadership of the college, the leadership of the Athletic Department, our current athletes, the outstanding coaching staff and the M Club directors. Thank you to all. You make us proud!

On September 6 the men’s soccer game played the inaugural contest on the new stadium game field. Softer and more resilient with a vivid “MAC” in the center, the new artificial surface has been enthusiastically received by both players and fans.

deeper sense of the word, leaders who very often care more about student and team development than wins and losses. Wooden was a master at this; a man who won countless games and multiple national championships speaks most often about the quest for excellence and how, at root, he saw himself as a teacher. Indeed, athletics is a great classroom.

I’ve also been thinking about why we have college athletics. American intercollegiate athletics is singular. Outside of a handful of Canadian universities and others here and there, college athletics exist in the United States alone. The rest of the world adheres to a traditional club system that has no attachment to higher education at all. So what’s the point? Why have college athletics at all?

Some arguments have to do with access and the college athletics scholarship, while others deal with building character. But some would say scholarship funds would be better dedicated to need-based or merit aid having nothing to do with athletics, and that club sports and other activities can build character and promote physical activity.

The arguments for college athletics, it seems to me, are reduced to two, and both, I believe, resonate with our unique Macalester experience. The first looks at athletics as a community building exercise. There are few events in higher education that bring together our community of students (both participants and spectators), faculty, staff, alumni, parents and neighbors as well as athletics. Robert Simon, a noted sport philosopher, said in his book Fair Play: Sport, Values, and Society (1991) that “Sports can provide a common framework allowing for lines of communication to remain open to individuals of significantly distinct ideological, intellectual, ethnic, religious and socioeconomic backgrounds.” At a college like Macalester that values diversity in all its forms, this would argue for a robust athletics experience.

The second argument for college athletics posits the value of athletics as a public display of institutional excellence. As far as I understand, we do not take tickets to view students in the lab, and I hope we don’t lead rousing soccer cheers while they take tests, but it’s different with athletics. Here we celebrate the development of human excellence. We celebrate the development of human excellence. Simon says that the beauty of athletics is its capability to provide special opportunities for testing, growth and development of self-knowledge for unusually talented and dedicated individuals, as well as special opportunities to appreciate and enjoy excellence for the rest of us.” Isn’t this the aim of higher education?

As you read through the pages of this newsletter, please join me in celebrating a fantastic Macalester athletics experience, one that touches our students, our coaches, our community and you. Enjoy!

Sincerely,

Hall of Fame

Honors Outstanding Athletes

On October 21 in the Olin–Rice Science Center, an enthusiastic crowd of M Club members and friends, joined by the Alumni Association, saw five new members inducted into the Athletic Hall of Fame and Heather J. Lendway ’06 and Timothy P. Burns ’06 honored as Athletes of the Year. The Hall of Fame, inaugurated in 1980 with the induction of the 12 charter members, honors distinctive athletic achievements of individuals who have participated in Macalester athletics, in coaching or in administration, and who have brought recognition and honor to themselves, the college and the community.

A portrait of David Claire Primrose, long-time Macalester track coach, was dedicated, and attendees enjoyed a film tribute to the history of Macalester athletics and to its future, as symbolized by the community’s commitment to the new Athletics and Recreation Center.

Hall of Fame Inductees

John C. “Jack” Bachman
Swimming & Diving Coach 1967–1989

(inducted posthumously)

After building Chico State into a powerhouse collegiate team in California, Jack Bachman came to Macalester in 1967 and helped continue the championship tradition established in the earlier part of the decade. His teams won MIAC championships in 1968, 1969, 1970, 1971 and 1972, and during his tenure he coached 34 All-Americans and several national champions.

Dr. Bachman was professor of Physical Education and Kinesiology and director of the Human Performance Laboratory at Mac, and an honorary member of the Chico State Athletic Hall of Fame. Dr. Bachman served in the Navy and Naval Reserve from 1952 to 1972 and reached the rank of Lt. Commander.

After retiring from Macalester as a professor in 1989, having coached swimming for over 40 years, he and his wife Muriel retired in Tahoe City, California, where he was an owner and director of the Tahoe Swimming School in the summers from 1960 to 1987. He authored numerous research publications, five books on sport and physical activities, and always remained active in swimming, tennis and fly fishing until his passing on March 31, 2005 at the age of 76. He is survived by his wife Muriel, and their children fellow Hall of Fame honoree Paul Bachman ’81, Nancy Bachman ’79, Carol Bachman Cathman ’82, David Bachman ’85 and Steven.

Paul L. Bachman ’81
Swimming & Diving

A four-year letter-winner from 1977 through 1981 and two-time team captain, Paul Bachman enjoyed a standout swimming career at Macalester and earned all-conference honors in 1978, 1979, 1980 and 1981. He was twice named the winner of the department’s Thomas Gammel Award and established pool records in the 100 breaststroke. Bachman set school records in the 100-yard and 200-yard breaststroke events, and in all four seasons at Macalester he qualified for the national meet in the two breaststroke events. He was also a member of a school record-setting 400-yard medley relay.

Bachman has been a swim coach since graduating from Macalester and is currently in his 20th year of coaching at John Marshall High School in Rochester, Minnesota. As a coach, he has produced two NAIA national champions, seven Minnesota state high school individual champs and 15 All-Americans. He continues to volunteer ten hours a week with a local swim club.

Macalester will once again webcast its home basketball games. Listen and watch at www.macalester.edu/athletics/broadcasts.html
Roger D. Bridge '92

Soccer

A former All-America defender and MIAC Player of the Year, Roger Bridge helped turn the Macalester Scots into a traditional men's soccer power after arriving in St. Paul from Auckland, New Zealand. He stepped right into the starting lineup as a freshman, anchored the defense from his sweeper position and helped lead the Scots to their first-ever MIAC championship in his first season in 1988. That was Macalester's first conference team title in seven years in any sport. In his junior season, he helped guide the Scots to another championship and was named MIAC Player of the Year—a rarity for a defender. Along with teammate and fellow New Zealander Matt Jackson, Bridge became Mac's first All-America selection in the sport and is one of only two Macalester four-time All-MIAC performers.

While leading the team onto the scene as a nationally competitive program, Bridge and the Scots posted a 45-14-5 overall record and 32-5-3 conference record between 1988 and 1991. They made the national playoffs twice, and during the '90 season, Bridge and the Mac defense surrendered just one goal while posting a perfect 10-0 conference record.

After his graduation, Bridge served on the Macalester Admissions Department staff and as an instructor in the Geography Department. He played professionally for three years for the Minnesota Thunder and came back to coach as an assistant at his alma mater in 1997 and 1998.

John R. Howard '58

Track, Wrestling

A team captain for two years, John Howard established school and MIAC records in 1956 in the shot put, and was a multiple-event standout on some very good Macalester track and field teams. Howard participated in seven different events at MIAC championship meets. He earned second- and third-place conference finishes in the discus throw and had first-, second- and third-place MIAC shot put performances. He also took fifth in the conference in the 220-yard dash and fourth in the mile relay, showing his outstanding versatility. Howard was also a standout wrestler for the Scots and one year placed second in the MIAC at the 191-pound class.

Howard was junior class president and Scots Club president at Mac. After graduation, he was a hospital administrator (CEO/COO) for 20 years, and achieved professional success and community leadership as an executive recruiter, girl's community softball coach, board member of Moraga Community Association, former Deacon of Lafayette Orinda Presbyterian Church and program chairman, Minorities, Healthcare Executives of Northern California.

Thomas A. Otteson '65

Golf, Wrestling, Football

Tom Otteson was an MIAC standout at Macalester in golf, wrestling and football. As a golfer, Otteson was a three-year team captain and two-time all-conference performer. As a junior and senior, he was MIAC runner-up, and he led Macalester to league championships three years in a row while winning medalist honors in five meets, and top-three finishes nine times. In football, Otteson earned three letters and was named honorable mention All-MIAC. A three-year letter-winner in wrestling, he collected a second- and two third-place conference finishes.

Following his Macalester years, Otteson developed a long history of coaching, as well as professional and amateur sports participation. A scratch golfer, he has played in the state Senior Open, and he is believed to have the largest private golf memorabilia collection in the country. He is a Macalester Heritage Society member.

My name is Paul Odegaard and I am a 2004 graduate of Macalester College. In June, I returned to campus to work as an Assistant Director of the Annual Fund. I had a tremendous experience at Macalester and realized I had an opportunity to give back. Like many students, I was involved with a number of extracurricular activities while on campus, but my involvement with the baseball program played an integral role in my development as a student and as a person. For four years, I learned the value of discipline, hard work and leadership with 30 teammates that became my best friends. While I was a student-athlete, I experienced the benefits of athletic fundraising first hand. Now, as an alum and staff member, I am excited about working with the M Club to improve on last year’s record fundraising total.

Gifts to the M Club provide our Athletic Department and coaches with the ability to meet their team’s needs. The new Macalester Athletic and Recreation Center is fueling excitement among student-athletes and coaches. The next eighteen months will provide short-term challenges that can be alleviated by your continued support of the M Club.

The M Club Phone-a-thon will be taking place in late January. If you have interest in participating in our phone-a-thon by calling your former teammates and other former Mac athletes, please contact me at odegaardp@macalester.edu or by calling 651-696-6784. Macalester College sincerely appreciates your past support and enthusiasm in staying connected to Mac through athletics. In the coming months, I look forward to meeting you at various Mac athletic events.

Best regards,

The Scots have most of their key players back from last winter's team, which finished 7–18 on the season and 6–14 in the MIAC. Macalester has an interesting schedule due to the construction of the new gym, which forced the team to switch several games around. The Scots open with seven road games, then play 11 straight at home, and then finish with seven straight away contests.

All-MIAC and All-West Region forward Tom Conboy (Jr., Chanhassen, Minn./Minnetonka) ranked second in the league in scoring and fourth in rebounding last season and should pass the 1,000-point mark in career scoring early in the campaign. Brendan Bosman graduated after averaging 15.1 points per game and point guard Nate Assel (So., Eagan, Minn./Rosemount) is out for the season with a knee injury, but several players are ready to step up for Coach Curt Kietzer.

Jesse Hollander (Sr., Katmandu, Nepal/Bend,Ore./Mountain View) ranked in the top10 in the MIAC in rebounding and Lars Johnson (Sr., St. Cloud, Minn./Tech) is a solid all-around player. Guard Brad Liddell (Jr., Crystal Lake, Ill./Central) is back after missing last year with an injury, while Brian Ranwick (So., Plymouth, Minn./Minnetonka) also returns to the back court. Other returners for this experienced Mac team are forward Andy Stein (Sr., Rosemount, Minn.) and guard Trevor Jepma (Sr., Sauk Rapids, Minn./Sauk Rapids–Rice).

Women's Basketball

Head Coach Ellen Thompson has brought in some talented newcomers in her second season as head women's basketball coach at Macalester, and the Scots are ready to show significant improvement from a year ago when Thompson was rebuilding the team from scratch after the '04–'05 campaign was cancelled after six games due to a shortage of players.

Last winter under Thompson, the Scots established a foundation to build upon. Athletes from cross country, soccer and softball joined a group of frosh and transfers to form a team that played hard, performed well defensively and went 2–21 while playing an independent schedule. This season, Macalester is back in the MIAC and ready to show that it belongs.

Elise Pagel (So., Appleton, Wis./North) established a Macalester frosh scoring record by averaging 15.5 points a contest and was the team's scoring leader in all but two games. "We are fortunate to build our program around such a talented player," Coach Thompson points out.

Diedre Jackson (Jr., Chicago, Ill./Oak Park–River Forest) led the team with 7.8 rebounds per game, and Callie PaStarr (Sr., Minneapolis, Minn./Southwest) was one of the team's top defensive players. Several newcomers are expected to play very big roles right from the start of their Macalester careers.

Women's Swimming & Diving

Macalester graduated the most accomplished athlete in the program's history, MIAC Swimmer of the Year Heather Lendway, who won three conference championships last year and earned honorable mention All-America honors. Despite the loss of Lendway, the Macalester Scots are optimistic for another successful season.

The Scots return three all-conference performers and look solid in every event. Nancy Taff (Sr., Falcon Heights, Minn./Roseville) placed second at the MIAC championships last winter in the 100-yard breaststroke, while also finishing fourth in the 200 breaststroke. Kristin Mathson (Jr., Verona, Wis.) placed third in the MIAC in the 400 individual medley, fourth in the 200 backstroke and fifth in the 500 freestyle as one of the conference's most versatile swimmers. Alanna Mozena (Sr., Dubuque, Ia.) is an all-conference diver, while Annie Flanagan (So., Madison, Wis./East) is also a top-notch diver.

Sprinters Jackie DeLuca (Sr., New Preston, Conn./Hotchkiss) and Alex Cortes (So., Berkeley, Calif./Head–Royce) are also looking forward to big seasons. DeLuca missed much of last season while studying abroad, but should be one of the MIAC's top freestylers again this year.

Men's Swimming & Diving

Macalester loses its top swimmer, Sjon Swanson, to graduation and will enter a rebuilding stage this season with a very young team. The Scots will rely on many newcomers to play key roles right from the start of their collegiate careers.
