ASSOCIATION OF NEPALIS IN THE AMERICAS’ CONFERENCE

On July second and third approximately 350 people gathered at Hofstra University for the Association of Nepalis in the Americas’ sixth annual conference. The Association of Nepalis in the Americas (hereafter referred to as the ANA) is a pan-American organization whose membership consists not only of the United States’ and Canada’s Nepali community, but also of many Americans who have an interest in Nepal and America and to contribute to development efforts in Nepal (to date the ANA has supported several schools in remote areas of Nepal, given assistance to flood victims and supported the Namsaling community health project).

The ANA’s sixth annual conference began, on the afternoon of July second, with a cocktail party where everyone could mix casually and get to know one another. In the evening everyone gathered for a traditional Nepali dinner in the Hofstra University dining hall. This was followed by a welcome address given by Krishna Manandhar, executive officer of the Association. The welcome address was followed by a cultural show in which Nepali children played musical instruments and performed a variety of songs and dances. The first day of the conference ended with a performance of modern Nepali songs and dances given by Nepalis from Kathmandu, Darjeeling and Kalimpong.

The second day of the conference began with a business session at which annual progress reports were given by the ANA’s president (Kamal Pathak), vice president (Ram Malakar), secretary (Meena Giri), treasurer (Pat Thakur) and newsletter editor (Kujar Sharma). The business session also included reports on a Nepali cultural center (which the ANA is establishing in Washington D.C.) and a fund raising dinner which was recently held in honor of Sir Edmund Hillary. Each of these reports was followed by suggestions from the floor on how the ANA’s divers activities might be improved.

The business session was followed by a series of talks on development in Nepal and various aspects of Nepali politics and culture. The first talk was given by Dr. Irene Llovera, who has been involved with the Orvis public health project in Nepal. This was followed by Dr. Barry Bailek who talked about his involvement in the Namsaling community health project. The third talk was given Jai Pratap Rana, Nepal’s ambassador to the United Nations. Mr. Rana’s talk focussed on Nepal’s role in the United Nations. The fourth talk was given by Frederick Selby, who discussed his personal experiences as a development worker in Nepal. The fifth talk was given by Dr. Vishnu Poudel. Dr. Poudel’s talk focussed on the contributions that various ethnic groups have made to American society. Ratna Man Sakya, the sixth speaker, discussed his role as director of a World Bank sponsored project which promotes trade between Nepal and the United States. The last speaker, Jagdish Pokhrel, gave a talk on Nepal’s educational system. The conference ended with a cultural show featuring traditional Nepali songs, dances, and jokes.
